Support Procedure: What Happens Now?

1. You report an issue to Support via phone call, voice message or email.
2. A Support Receptionist records the details of your issue. He or she creates a Support Case for your issue, assigns an HQ Number to it, and emails you the HQ Number for the case.
3. The Support Case is entered into the Support Queue.
4. Technical Support Representatives are assigned Support Cases out of the Support Queue in the order that the cases were received.
5. The assigned Technical Support Representative will work to resolve your case as soon as possible. He or she may need to work with you over the phone or through GoToMeeting to find a resolution.
6. The Technical Support Representative will contact you with the resolution for your issue or begin troubleshooting the issue with your assistance. If you prefer a phone call, please tell the Support Receptionist when first reporting your issue.

Please Note: Your support issue will receive the same prompt and dedicated attention from our Support team whether you call, email or leave a voice mail.
